

2020 Wrath Pinot Noir, Lemoravo Vineyard Santa Lucia Highlands

Tasting Notes: Lemoravo Vineyard sits at 400 feet above the Salinas Valley floor, on the eastern slopes of the Santa Lucia Highlands. It is a small vineyard, only 28 acres, and is part of Kirk Williams' portfolio of properties. As a tribute to this land's history, the name is a three-word portmanteau as a tribute to its former crops: Lemons, Oranges and Avocados. This Wrath's first bottling of Lemoravo Vineyard fruit and we've found the grapes to have classic SLH character with black and red berry flavors, a touch of herbs, and some mineral/earthiness. The wine begins with aromas of stone fruit (Pluot) and ripe strawberries with a hint of eucalyptus and opens to flavors of blackberry balanced with cinnamon and anise and spicy white peppercorn. The texture is soft and long, leading to a finish that has some tart cherry and lingering spices.
